OZONE BELT IS OUT IN KAIMUKI

Dr. Briggs Discovers Nature's Own Product and Talks of a Sanitarium.

The discovery of an ozone belt along the Palolo heights section of the Kaimuki district, free from the humidity which is present in adjacent valleys and along the shores at times, has impelled F. C. Briggs, head of Briggs Sanitarium of Oakland, to pronounce it the most ideal site in the world for a rest sanitarium, substantially proving up the belief of President Charles Stanton, of the Kaimuki Land Company, who has been figuring on obtaining opinions of local medical experts as to whether or not that section of Honolulu's suburbs was not peculiarly adapted to the establishment of such an institution.

Mr. Briggs, since his arrival here nearly two weeks since, has visited many portions of Honolulu, including Kaimuki. He made a trip to the Palolo slopes and while there noticed the peculiar climatic conditions of that belt, with rain falling in the valleys behind and sweeping down toward Honolulu, with another rain sheet sweeping along past Koko Head, but not a drop falling in or near the belt. It decided him immediately in the belief that there was the place for which he has been searching for years for the establishment of a sanitarium.

Climatic Mecca.
"I believe I have found the Mecca of the health-seeking world," said Mr. Briggs yesterday. "It is an unsurpassed resting place away from the noise and confusion of the city, an ideal spot to commune with nature. I have found what science proves exists, and that is pure ozone, manufactured in nature's own way."

"I have been experimenting with the climatic conditions of every known health resort, far and near. In fact, I have visited Canada from Halifax to the Northwest, United States, from Eastport, Maine, to California; crossed the Atlantic to Denmark, from there to the city of Bordeaux, on the beautiful banks of the Grand river, in search of a place where I could with impunity install my system of health culture, and I can truthfully say I have found it in Honolulu, only a short distance from the business section of the city, in Kaimuki, and I believe I may safely prophesy that inside of five years, Kaimuki will be heralded as the greatest health resort in the world."

"Ozone, as I refer to it, is not the manufactured and condensed article in a container for the sick to inhale through a rubber tube, but the oxygen which God has abundantly supplied for mankind. Ozone is oxygen condensed."

owned by the Kaimuki Land Company, there is an elevation of land considerably above sea level, in the beautiful Palolo district, fronting the grand Pacific Ocean which gives the balmy sea air to the soft gentle breeze and is wafted shorewards, where it is met by the ever-shining sun rays. The free circulation of air from the gentle winds of east, north and south, together with the sun and air elements, take away all humidity, producing an atmosphere that is dry, balmy, exhilarating and rich with ozone.

"Perhaps there are other places in this world where nature has provided as abundantly for the cure of disease, but I have failed to find them."

For Rest Sanitarium.
Mr. Stanton stated last evening that he was interested in Mr. Briggs' discovery, and that his views were entirely in accord with plans he hoped to develop in the near future for the establishment of a rest sanitarium in the place mentioned.

"The entire district has been endowed by nature as a sanitarium for health and longevity, and just as soon as the scientific world realizes it, the district will become one of the greatest attractions in the Islands and a health resort equal to any in the country. The place to which Mr. Briggs refers is at an elevation of about four hundred feet on the Koko Head side of the Palolo slope, now known as the Palolo Hill tract, where the humidity is driven into the valleys at the side."

Sanitariums in the Kaimuki district have been discussed here for many years, ever since the section was taken hold of by real estate men and opened up for residence suburbs.

OPPOSE ABANDONING LOGAN.

DENVER, December 5.—If United States Senator Francis E. Warren succeeds in having army headquarters transferred from Denver to Cheyenne, as it has been stated, he is trying to bring about, he will at least know he has been through a lively conflict. The Denver Chamber of Commerce already has begun a vigorous campaign to retain the headquarters in this city.

"We do not intend to take any chances on Denver losing so important an asset as the army headquarters," said Theodore Deland, secretary of the chamber. "Already the army post has been taken away and Fort Logan is nothing more than a recruiting station. Why should it be taken away from a large city like Denver to Cheyenne? The place to get recruits for the army, of course, is in a big city. How could they expect to secure recruits at Cheyenne, I'd like to know."

Mr. Deland sent today to the secretary of war at Washington a strong resolution, adopted by the chamber of commerce, setting forth tersely and vigorously that body's attitude on the question of removal.

MANY PUDDINGS FOR OVERSEAS BRITONS

Thousands of Them Are Sent Out by Friends in the Old Country.

LONDON, December 9.—Scores of thousands of Christmas puddings are now on the way to remote corners of the earth.

In this manner there will come to wanderers in the Arctic and Antarctic regions, to fortune seekers in veldt and bush and mine, a reminder of Christmas at "Home."

Messrs. Lyons have already made 250,000 puddings for Christmas eating, a large portion of which are going to Britons beyond the seas.

Most of the foreign-bound puddings are going to the relatives and friends of Londoners who have emigrated to British colonies and protectorates. A few are traveling to such far-distant spots as the Leeward Islands and the Fijis.

Amid the snows of the Antarctic, Captain Scott's men will eat their Christmas puddings; for Messrs. Buzard took timely precautions that a supply of them should reach the explorers before they lost touch with the outer world.

The postoffice authorities would seem specially to encourage Britons in this form of Christmas communication; for while they charge 1s. 6d. to send a three-pound pudding from London to Italy, they are willing to dispatch the same article to Canada for 6d. less.

If anyone wishes to send a London three-pound Christmas pudding to Germany, the parcel postage will cost him 1s. At the same rate he can gladden with three-pounders the hearts of his friends in Egypt, Gibraltar, India, New Zealand and Zanzibar. Rhodesia would appear to be the most expensive corner of the empire to which to send a Christmas pudding—5s. 3d. is charged for delivering three pounds of it there.

In regard to the home-made pudding for home consumption, the latest time for getting the pot a-boiling has, according to all the accepted authorities, now arrived, assuming the housewife would have the confection suitably "matured" by Christmas Eve.

Practically all the ingredients that enter into its composition are dearer than they were this time last year.

"Particularly currants and raisins," explained the manager of a great store. "They are 'up' from a penny to two-pence a pound as compared with the pudding-making period of 1909."
